EUROPEAN NOBLEWOMEN.

QUEEN ANNE, of England, was extremely fond of brandy and her face became so bloated that among the populace she was known as "Brandy Faced Nan."

THE dowager duchess of Sutherland was lately committed to prison for six weeks on sentence for contempt of court. She had burned some papers used in evidence in a trial concerning her husband's will.

THE princess of Wales has, perhaps, invented almost as many novelties as those in the knickknack trade. She drew with her own hand the plan for the pocket smoking case which the prince carries everywhere with him.

PRINCESS EULALIE left two hundred dollars with the manager of the Arlington hotel, Washington, to be distributed among the servants who served her and her party while she was at that house. They regard her as a princess from her head to her finger tips.

POPULAR FALLACIES.

THAT a good appetite is always bliss.

THAT it is worth while discovering a new comet.

THAT a treading on a velvet carpet effaces the soul.

THAT calling it a landscape will improve a back yard.

THAT the poetic habit is an abomination and a snare.

THAT a taste for liquor is one of the symptoms of genius.

THAT it's easier to analyze a dado than carbonic-acid gas.

THAT encyclopedic knowledge can purchase a five-cent cigar.

THAT cat music isn't strong enough to penetrate a brick wall.

THAT there's more science in safe-breaking than there is in poker.

THAT watches with the most expensive movements keep the best time.

THAT the man whose debts are all paid cares much about the deadagous. —Judge.

This is the grandchild of one of Virginia's most distinguished living statesmen. When the child was two days of age from sixteen injunction, and the doctor was led left it to die, it was given Garfield's Tea. In two hours it revived and began to recover very rapidly. In a recent letter to the above parties stating name and child, the mother says that "it was raised from the dead by Garfield's Tea."

The Kentucky statutes will be compiled by Hon. John D. Carroll and Judge Jos. Barbour, as a private enterprise.

Gov. Brown vetoed the Charitable Institutions bill on account of the provision in regard to the Feeble Minded Institute.

Sam O. Nunn, of Crittenden county has been given the Democratic Senatorial nomination in his district without opposition.

The Grand Rivers Herald has declared for Simon B. Buckner as Governor in 1895. Editor Whittemore can therefore lay claim to the honor of being the "original Stone man."

If Grover Cleveland, who now weighs 300 pounds, continues to gain surplus fat, Cousin Adlai E. Stevenson is going to wake up some fine morning and find himself President of the United States.

Col. Polk Laffoon is working up a meeting of the Confederate Association of Hopkins county at Madisonville August 5. It will be a grand reunion with a free barbecue, and a monster crowd is confidently expected. Low rates will be secured on the railroad and everybody is invited.

Ex-Mayor Chas. D. Jacob has announced himself a candidate for Mayor of Louisville against Mayor Tyler. Mr. Jacob has served as Mayor four times, having been last elected in 1887. Mr. Tyler has held the office for three years. The primary will be held Sept. 12 and the contest will be fierce and doubtful.

The New England Magazine with the current issue for July passes into the hands of Warren F. Kellogg, who has purchased the assets of the old-en company, and will continue the publication of the magazine, managing it himself from its new offices at 5 Park Square, Boston. Mr. Kellogg was formerly Treasurer of the Boston Post, under the old regime, when it stood for all that was highest in American journalism, and more recently has been interested in different Boston magazines. Edwin D. Mead, the chief editor of the New England, under the old stock company, and Walter Blackburn Harte, the managing editor, will be associated with Mr. Kellogg in his new enterprise. The July magazine is now on the news-stands, and the August number—an especially strong one—will be out at the usual time.

F. J. Vanderberg, president of the Leavenworth Business College, who has been advertising in many papers this summer, is now being passed around by the press as a dead beat. Vanderberg is said to be a slick confidence man and his college a myth.

The Henderson Journal takes a bold position against mob law and says no crime can justify lynch law. The opinion that Seay Miller was not guilty is also expressed and the avengers of the Ray girls are called murderers. Providing of course that the right man was caught, the mob did a praiseworthy piece of business. Law or no law such guilty brutes should be destroyed as any other dangerous beast would be put to death. The people make the laws and if the courts will not enforce them and promptly punish such guilty wretches as Miller, then the people themselves, a higher power than courts and juries, should see that women and children are protected. When rapes and kindred crimes are stopped in this country, lynching will be stopped but not until them. Good citizens may deprecate the necessity for such desperate measures, but few are found to condemn the acts themselves.

The Louisville Times says "Great is the editor. When the Kentucky Press Association visited the World's Fair they were well looked, but the attention and courtesies shown them were wrung from the Chicagoites by the magnificent gall of Bob Morningstar and fellow committeemen. Now, however the directors of the big show and the exhibitors have entered into an agreement with the railroads whereby newspaper men are to be given free trasportation, Pullman car accomodations, and be treated as special and honored guests. When the scribes get to Chicago the directors and exhibitors will do the rest, which will consist in filling the editorial inside with the best of everything and attentions such as shown by Eulalia and Veraguas. In return for this the editor is only expected to go home and tell of his royal treatment. A fund of $500,000 will be raised to advertise the Fair in this manner."

Who Will Be Postmaster?

This question is already attracting a good deal of attention in Hopkinsville, although Postmaster Breathitt's term is not out until Sept. 25, 1894. There are several active candidates and a good many other gentlemen who would like to have this plum, which pays $1,300 and is sure to be worth $2,000 a year from now.

Ex-Postmaster J. B. McKenzie was one of the first candidates to circulate a petition. His relationship to the Vice President was considered a strong point in his favor until the no ex. rule was promulgated. In spite of this ruling Mr. McKenzie is still quite confident.

Mr. A. M. Cooper, a nephew of Mr. McKenzie, is also a candidate and his application was largely signed by his friends. He is now and has for several years been connected with Forbes & Bro's implement department.

Mr. Buckner Leavell has been perhaps the most energetic of all the applicants. He obtained a big list of signers to his petition, and expects to be in at the finish.

Mr. W. A. Wilgus is one candidate who has not begun an active canvass. He early secured the endorsement of Congressman Ellis and with this advantage has been waiting quietly, he says, until "the proper time" to secure other endorsements.

Mr. Alex Campbell has also secured a handsome popular endorsement and is quietly resting on his oars until the contest opens in earnest.

The latest candidate to enter the race is Mr. S. G. Buckner. He has been quietly at work for some time getting endorsements and has, it is understood, already forwarded his papers to Washington.

In addition to this formidable list of candidates there are several other gentlemen freely talked of in connection with the position, some of whom would alter the lines considerably if they should conclude to enter the fight.

Mr. Wilgus is conceded to have the best chance, having the endorsement of Capt. Ellis, and unless the rule of permitting the Congressman to name the postmasters in departed from, it would seem that Mr. Wilgus' appointment is a foregone conclusion.

Public sentiment has done what the law could not do—closed the World's Fair on Sunday. The opposition from the religious people and the general disapproval of the determination to act in bad faith with the government, resulted in such small Sunday crowds that the Directory decided last week to close on Sunday after the 16th. There were only four opposing votes.

Hood's Cures

Owe all My Health to It

Cured of Sick Vomiting Spells, Dizziness, Neuralgia, Weakness.

Mrs. S. M. Waters
Georgetown, D. C.

"I have often seen statements from people benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I feel that I am not doing heartless unless my testimony is added. I have been suffering with sick vomiting spells for three or four years, with giddiness most of the time almost perfectly prostrated. I had no appetite, and suffered alike with neuralgia in my head and stomach. I was treated for two years by the best physicians, but found no relief. They would tell me my condition was

Owing to my Age

and that I must have patience. But after two years I though patience ceased to be a virtue. I was growing so weak I could not sleep at night. And when I was able to go out, I was afraid to go far from home. I was constantly tired. I could not go up or down stairs or raise my arms above my head without giddiness, and was so afraid to look up that I became accustomed to looking my head down.

At Last

I was persuaded to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles, my improvement in health is wonderful. I candidly believe I am cured of all my ailments. My appetite is good, can eat at any time, am free from neuralgia and other troubles. I never fail so well or was as stout as now since I was married, and I am mother of nine children. I have increased from 128 to 142 pounds. I am perfectly well, go out every day. When my friends ask what has made such an improvement I tell them I owe it all to

Hood's Sarsaparilla

and that I am made over again." Mrs. S. M. Waters, 1313 32d Street, N. W., Georgetown, D. C.

Readers of past numbers of Blue and Gray, the new American patriotic magazine, (Patriotic Publishing Company, Philadelphia,) as well as those who have not yet perused its pages, will find the July number valuable and entertaining. In new type, and with an unusually large number of articles and illustrations—in fact, a double number—the latest issue of Blue and Gray is now a worthy compeer of the best magazines in this country.

Sam Jones' is in Chicago this week and will preach a series of sermons. He arrived on Friday and on Saturday the Fair Directors promptly decided to close on Sundays after the Firemen's Benefit of the 16th. But maybe they might have closed anyhow if Sam had not moved on their works.

Niagara, "the crown jewel of our continent," centuries old, but ever new in its infinite variety, is the one spot that every American should see; and every reader of Demorest's Family Magazine for August may see Niagara in all its different aspects, at every season of the year, without the fatigue and expense of the journey. Through the charmingly written and superbly illustrated article "A Day at Niagara," one may become familiar with every point of interest in the vicinity of the Great Falls; while those who propose stopping there on their way to or from the Exposition, may learn how they may see all to the best advantage, and with the least expenditure of time and money. "Life at White Sulphur Springs" is another "outing" article. This is also an example of stay-at-home travel; for after reading the article and seeing the many illustrations one feels as familiar with the place as if it were visited.

There is something in it of interest to every member of the family. This number is a fair sample of what is given twelve times a year for $2. Published by W. Jennings Demorest 15 East 14th St., New York.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Col. J. M. Holmes, of Owensboro, will deliver a temperance lecture at the Court House in this city on Monday, July 24.

A large party from the city attended a ball at Cerulean Friday evening and quite a number remained over Sunday. These were joined by another large party Sunday morning.

The County Alliance will hold its regular semi annual meeting at the Court House in this city at 10 o'clock a. m. Friday. President J. W. Jones, will be on hand and a full attendance of the various sub-unions is desired.

J. Allen Rose, the distinguished colored Democratic orator, addressed a large crowd of people at the court House Thursday night in opposition to the Sapphead Combine law. A collection was taken up to fight the law in the courts, Hon. J. Proctor Knott having been retained by the colored people. The speech was a calm, considerate argument and those who went expecting to have race prejudices played upon were disappointed. Mayor Withers was present by invitation and his appearance on the speaker's

A freight wreck occurred on the N. N. & M. V. near Nortonville Friday Five cars were thrown from the track and one brakeman was badly hurt.

The large plate glass broken out of Anderson & Co's window by a storm some weeks ago was replaced Saturday. The loss was covered by insurance.

Mr. J. B Lander raised a raddish this year which measured nineteen inches in circumference. Let's hear from the gardener who can "beat" that.

J. H. Marshall, formerly clerk of Yancey's Southern Hotel, this city, is now with Brown's Hotel, corner of State and 47th sts, Chicago. For particulars inquire of J. W. Yancey.

A protracted meeting commenced at the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Bonnettsdown Sunday and will continue throughout the week. Rev. J. A. Allison, the pastor, is conducting the meeting.

Gam Sin Qua lectured at the Cumberland Presbyterian church Sunday night on the "Manners and Customs of China." A large crowd was present and all were highly pleased with the lecture.

The damage suit of J. A. Brenner, a St. Louis drummer, against the O. V. railroad company, for $5,000, has been compromised, the defendant paying $100. Brenner was forcibly ejected from one of the company's trains near Blackford last fall.

The "Timbrels," the children's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, will give a lawn party this evening at the residence of Mr. Geo. Elgin, on Liberty street. All are invited to come. Refreshments will be served. Admission for children 10c, for adults 15c.

Col. S. F. Embry, of Howell, has been appointed lecturer and solicitor for the state in behalf of the Keeley Institute at Crab Orchard Springs. He was also appointed delegate to the National convention of the Keeley League, which meets in the city of Chicago Sept. 12.

A most delightful moonlight picnic was enjoyed by the society people of the Beverley neighborhood at the hospitable home of Mr. J. T. Fleming Friday evening. Ices and cake were served to the large crowd present and all were highly entertained. Miss Mittie Dowell, of Cairo, Ills., assisted Miss Lavola Fleming as hostess on the pleasant occasion.

There is no liquor sold at White Wash, the little village south of Garretsburg, now. Ross Metcalfe's license expired in May last and when application was made to the County Judge for a renewal a petition signed by several hundred people was lodged requesting that no more liquor license be granted at that place. This caused har to go dry and the thirsty now go a few miles over in Tennessee to "wet their whistles."

A vacant tenement house on Fourth street, the property of Mr. J. W. Daniels, of Santa Fe, Kans., was consumed by fire early Friday morning. The building was of little value and there was no insurance. Just how the fire originated is not known, but the supposition is that some tramp carelessly dropped a match about the premises, igniting the trash under the shanty. The fire department was out on time but too late to save the shell of a house.

The Black Fat tobacco factory on Jessup Avenue is rapidly nearing completion. Some of the machinery has arrived and is being placed in position and the balance will be on hand in a few days. The building is a large and commodious one, suitable antially built, and will afford employment to from fifty to a hundred hands the year round. The factory will begin operations as soon as the building is completed and the machinery is placed in proper position for work.

Wheat threshing has been in order during the past week and fully four-fifths of the crop has been knocked out. The yield is generally satisfactory and the condition excellent, some weighing 64 pounds to the measured bushel. Much of the crop has been sold and delivered at prices ranging from 49 to 55 cents. Some buyers are storing their purchases believing that there will be a heavy advance in price by October 1. There

CREAM OF NEWS.

The Canning Factory.

The gentlemen interested in the proposed canning factory met Saturday and ordered the preparation of articles of incorporation and opened correspondence with parties for the plant needed. The site was selected and the factory is now a certainty.

A Correction.

In our last issue we stated that Mr. J. C. Cantrell, of Crofton, committed suicide. It should have read J. C. Cansler. Nothing further has developed as a cause for the act of self-destruction. Deceased was a relative of Hon. Polk Cansler, of this city, and was a gentleman of fine standing and influence.

A Chicken Thief Sentenced.

Last Saturday Mr. W. M. West purchased five very fine chickens. The same night his hen house was broken open and the chickens disappeared. Sunday morning George Washington, an old colored man, was arrested and the fowls were found in his possession. He was brought before Judge Morrow yesterday and on a plea of guilty was given 30 days in the work house.

Died From Internal Injuries.

Last Thursday afternoon John Fleming, the twelve year-old son of Mrs. E. J. Fleming, while playing at his home on North Main, fell and injured himself fatally. He was attempting to stand on his head, when his entrails became locked in some way resulting in his death Sunday morning. The remains were taken to the Howell naighborhood for interment yesterday.

The Week's Forecasts.

Hicks says we may expect very warm weather the balance of the month. The highest temperatures will be reached during our storm periods, with changes of wind and minimum temperatures between. This week look out for black clouds, with severe bluster and thunder, and local down-pours. Very warm, with storms 22nd and 23rd. From 26th to 30th, expect excessive heat, with venus storms. The rain fall during the month will be light, but there will be many local storms of wind, thunder and lightning.

Implement Man Injured.

Mr. James M. Green, of this city, was badly hurt near Cosky Thursday afternoon last by being struck in the face with a large piece of iron. He had been supervising the location of an engine and thresher and was sitting in his buggy near the engine when the cylinder exploded. A heavy fragment struck Mr. Green in the mouth knocking out several teeth and badly cutting and bruising his face. He was rendered unconscious for a time and it was feared at first that he had received fatal injuries. He was taken to the home of his father, Mr. Thomas Green, near by, where he received prompt medical attention, and he is now getting on nicely.

Raped His Sister.

George Porter, col., committed a rape on the person of his eleven-year-old sister, near Guthrie, Friday. Porter worked in the neighborhood and coming home found his mother absent from the house and his little sister alone. The girl's cries were heard by a colored man who was passing and he, assisted by Esquire Marshall, on whose premises the horrible deed was committed, forced open the door and captured the villian as he was in the act of carrying out his purpose. Porter was bound and taken before Esquire Bryan, who held him over and he was taken to the Clarksville jail to await trial. The shocking affair created great excitement and the fiend narrowly escaped lynching. He was much frightened and expressed great satisfaction at being locked up for safe keeping. It is not now likely that a mob will interfere in the case, but Porter will receive the full penalty of the law.

An Old Man's Horrible Death.

Monroe Rawlins, a colored man aged about 75 years, fell from the L. & N. bridge which spans Little River in the northern suburbs of the city Saturday night receiving injuries from which he died Sunday morning. He had been over in the city and was returning to his home a few hundred yards north of the bridge when he tripped his toe and fell a distance of sixty feet landing upon sledge of rock below. One thigh was crushed, an arm was broken and the old man also received internal injuries. His groans attracted the attention of some one passing about 1 o'clock Sunday morning when he was picked up and taken to his home. Drs. Gunn and Seargent were called and did all in their power to relieve his sufferings. About 10 o'clock Sunday morning the surgeons amputated the injured leg, but Rawlins only lived a short while after the operation. He was conscious up to the last and told how the accident occurred before he died. He had been in the habit of walking the bridge to and from his work for years.

From Baptist and Reflector.

Several parties have written to the editor of this paper inquiring whether the Electropoise is the phenomenal the wonderful curative powers that are claimed for it. While the editor has not been in a position to speak from personal experience, quite a number of his friends and acquaintances have testified to great benefit received from to use, among whom is Rev. Dr. Lofton, of Nashville, who writes as follows:

"I have given a partial trial to the Electropoise, and found it of great relief to indigestion, nervousness, and sleeplessness; and while I have not kept up the use of the instrument sufficiently to judge of its full effect in the treatment of my trouble of life, my wife considers it invaluable, and so do many of my friends about me, who would not be out my consideration part with it. My very good health myself and family, I attribute in part to the use of the instrument, and can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a device."

Dr. Lofton told me that after a few hours' soaking he found it of great value in equalizing the circulation and restoring the terrific equilibrium in sleep, and I have found the same under the circumstances."

MORE CLIFF DWELLERS.

Discovery of Another Ruined City in New Mexico.

It Shows That the Prehistoric Race That Lived There Was Civilized Over Fifteen Thousand Rooms in the Face of the Cliffs.

To the lover of archeology no field presents a finer prospect than this portion of northern New Mexico, where a New York Advertiser correspondent from Abiquiu, N. M. It abounds in antiquities of every description pertaining to the prehistoric races of America. Its ruins and monuments are undoubtedly as ancient as the pyramids and somewhat analogous in many respects. Mr. A. W. F. Cope, the artist, and the writer have been in camp amid the ruins for the last two weeks, excavating and investigating generally.

We estimate that the city must have contained fully 50,000 inhabitants, as we have counted over 15,000 rooms in the face of the cliffs, where they are ten deep and ten feet square on an average. They extend around the face of a circular mountain for a distance of over five miles. The level mesa on top is full of the ruins of their old temples, pow-wow holes and dwellings. Estimating three persons to each room, and 15,000 rooms, we have 45,000, but the probabilities are that each room was the abode of at least five persons, and the buildings on top of the mesa may have contained fully as many more. It is safe and conservative to say that it was a city of at least 50,000 inhabitants.

That they had enemies there can be no question, as they selected a strong natural fortress for their city. Their enemies were undoubtedly savages, perhaps the Apache family, whose present reservation is on the hunting grounds of their forefathers, not more than fifty miles from where this ruined city

The cliff dwellers were doubtless a civilized people to a great extent, as their architecture, their pottery and other evidence here abundantly testify. It would seem that their enemies finally prevailed over them, destroying them and their city, as they have disappeared from the face of the earth.

The country is as wild as the interior of Africa. It is not an agricultural region, and how fully 50,000 people maintained life in such a place and under such conditions will forever be a puzzle to the scientific men of the country. There is a large spring of delicious, cool water on the face of the cliff and is the only entrance. This at least insured a permanent water supply against any prolonged siege of the enemy.

They buried their dead on the mesa in cañons which have a long distance along a main avenue of over two miles. The sight is, indeed, a ghastly, yet wonderful one, never to be forgotten.

Grinning skulls and crumbling bones reflect back the light from torches. The sepulchres are hollowed out in the walls similar to the rooms in the face of the cliffs. It is a dry, soft conglomerate formation, the bones and walls of which are self-supporting, and never was there a more favorable place, nor could there be, for a repository of the dead than this.

We have already excavated to a considerable amount pottery in a good state of preservation; also copper ornaments and vessels. We have four Mexicans at work and will remain here a month yet in hopes of making further important discoveries.

The ruined city was discovered in January last by Mr. A. F. Coape, an Englishman, who spent the last six years in this part of New Mexico hunting and fishing.

The ruins are so well preserved that they look as if they might not have been long abandoned; yet how many thousand years have rolled around since the city throbbed with life and action no one can even conjecture.

The country abounds in many other ruins of the prehistoric race of America. In Garcia Large, about 100 miles from here in southern Colorado, there is quite a tier of cliff-dwelling villages in which much valuable pottery is said to have been found. But this was not the chief city and capital of the cliff dwellers, as the pow-wow holes and foundations of large public buildings and the plaza about them would indicate. This is indeed the Pompeii of America, and well worthy the attention of the scientific world generally.

A New Death Trap.

Nervous mortals who imagine that they could stand a fall slight enough were it not for the fear of being injured alive may be interested in a recent subterranean trap made by a French novelist. He says that an unfailing test of death may be made by producing a blister on the hand or foot of the corpse, using a candle for that purpose. If the blister, upon being opened with a pin or other instrument, is found to contain fluid of any kind there is still life in the supposed corpse. On the other hand, should it contain steam only, rest assured that the vital spark has flown.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Tug greatest song writer was Schubert. He produced over 1,000 songs.

Oscar Hammerstein, who is said to be the sarcrest of all musical performers.

Florence Nightingale (who took her first name from the city of her birth) will be seventy-three years old next month.

Mr. Hinkel recently appeared at the inaugural concert of the Gouldon Choral Society, which was his first appearance in public for many years. In his younger days society he has always taken great interest.

Dvorak, the Bohemian composer, who recently conducted several of his own music at the world's fair, declares that the possibilities of an American school of music are to be found in the untiring energy and large public spirit. She makes no one of the best authorities in her state in regard to music, and she was some time ago appointed by the world's fair commission as musical director for Kansas.

GEMS OF VERSE.

Mother Song.

Soft sleeps the earth in moonlight bluish
Soft sleeps the tough above the sonic
One tough despite the whippoor will
Breathes soft her last note and all is still.
Hush, darling, sight is long—
Sleep while I sing thy cradle song

Now thy dream the drooping flower
Blows her sweet breath from hour to hour,
And while the great moon spreads her wings
While low, white fur, the deer earth swings
Sleep, little darling, all night long
In the wind shall sing thy slumber song

Powers of the earth and of the air
Shall have thee in their mother care,
As hosts of flowers, together pressed,
Bend over thee, their last, their best
Thou little darling from me deep
Some mighty wing shall fan thy sleep.
—Harriet Prescott Spofford, in Harper's Bazar.

Somewhere Between.

Between the daybreak and the sun,
Between a morning and midday,
'Twixt what is last and what is won,
Between the span of life we are,
Between the thinking and the deed,
Between the acting and the seed,
'Twixt those who follow and those who lead,
Is—I myself and thee

Between our hour which shines afar
Against the sky like some bright star,
And hate's more sinister, remoter bar,
All joys and woes exist.
So, if our lives, which seem so bright
Should be obscured by some dark night,
Remember there's a brighter light
No darkness can resist.
—Bruce Whitney, in Detroit Tribune

A Literary Order.

The doughnut most commonly that
Doth come to me these days
Is from some lady friend that
Thinks I'm a literary man.
That pessimism pays
Who only possessed of brass
A mean fish oil high
I need it not, and put a note
Returning it ere night

"These lines are nice," the writer said,
"They're from a dandy book
But you our paper can't have read,
We think, or we'd not ask
This happy spell to out of date,
Impossible to be taking
And some six months must wait
To have the reading thing

"Declare that life is wholly grief,
That all our care is wrong;
Make every maiden's heart a thief
The hardest poet song
Prejudice and hate, and all your mirth,
Drop sunshine as it took air,
And we can't be too certain worth
Of room and dark despair."

—John B. Tabb, in Century

Under the Orchard Bough.

Under the bough are pink and white,
And I with sweet perfume
The trees are busy all the day,
And so am I at home.

Near by the orchard, each like
Is loud at head to knee,
And dandelions star the grass,
In coats of golden hue.

We hear afar the ploughman's song,
A-loose by the plough-tree,
The robin chirps to us to make
The orchard ours in fee.

Carelessly the south wind tosses
With bud, and leaf, and flower;
All in the dewy trees with them
A thrill of wild is power

And everywhere in glad new life—
Pulsating rich and rare,
We hear and see and feel it in the fragrant
Yet I am the happiest one
—Miss H. M. Crockett, in the Farmer.

The Song of an Invalid.

Come in the morning, come at noon,
Come when the day is done,
But oh! the single hours dance with delight
That wait upon your coming and bring
The precious gift of a time-fed barrel from my Come!

Come by grain by grain the hour runs
Come by the sun and the moon
And it time to sleep with the song of the —W. H. Johnson, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Unweeping or Unwept.

Unwept, unhonored and unsung
Where'er the worst of heartaches bringing
Down the tears in eyes and tongue
Unweeping and unsinging
Unwept for by mother, bound
Has struggling in the somber night,
Unsung sing for the vanquished
The happy ridings of the light

Weep not be sure they shall be wept,
Sing not and the joy made ring
May wake some soul, which long has slept,
Into the light by singing
Let fall thy tears! Let rise thy strain!
Do most thou never be among
Those brethren of man's disdain,
Unwept, unhonored and unsung."
—J. Edmund V. Cooke, in N. Y. Independent

The Language of Love.

In youth I tried to learn the many tenses,
In age the mode. Its conjugations, too,
I turned its sentences, and lost my senses
When present pronoun spoke to me of you.

Its active and its passive verbs enthralled me
(In past and present) filled me full of joy;
Its future tense, potential, not appalled me—
Though singular, I was a happy boy.

But, in my maturity, discover
Love's language to be easy owing to learn;
In person "he or she" say never—
Its moods are imperative and mere.

Unless—ah, rare conjugation solved by Cupid!
Love's mood by sweet methods of your own,
And I am taught that men are all things stupid
And that love speaks to sinners alone!
—Eva Dare, in Detroit Free Press.

The World's Fair Filter.

Greased lightnin' sled's a circumstance,
Old Nat Rache ain't in it.
Gosh! how the landscape scores a past
As I bestride adder a stick.
Yonse fly across the sight as fast,
They's steamers drive ye blind.
Jest ez that come in sight about
They're out right behind.

We chased up yisterday's assault,
We beat to-day all holler,
Oh! Sol pet her to hump himself
When he starts in ter holler
An' ez comer's gone out west,
He'll urge his flight in vain,
Fer I'll overtake him yet
To the tail end of our train.

Just ez we pulled out from New York,
We wired Chicago: "Comin'."
Got word back: "Have a seaside car train
That telegram flew, hommin',
Fer it was train, that telegram,
Great scott! it ought ter seen us
Clear to Chicago, sure ez guns,
Ez we left New York's precincts.

We struck Chicago all alive,
Ez we sed we would be strong,
But the strain had stretched our railroad train
Until it was extra long.
When we had stopped, our journey o'er,
And the engine hooked her free,
That telegram stic in from York
Was a mile behind us still.

Some on us folks—I was one,
Was too slow in alightin';
Fer we thought the train was off
Back to New York a-hittin'
Fer the "World's Fair Filter"
Ez now we call the car
In which we ride from day to day
Ez does, or I'm a liar.

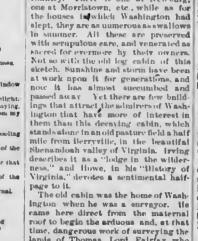
AN HISTORIC CABIN.

Once It Was the Home of Immortal Washington.

Located a Half Mile from Berryville, Va., in the Beautiful Shenandoah Valley — It Is Now Fast Going to Decay.



WASHINGTON'S CABIN HOME

In these days, when relics of the great and good George Washington are brought out of dark closets and old libraries where they have been hidden for a century and more, and everything that was ever in contact with the immortal "Father of his Country" has a sacred value, it is strange that the relic hunters have overlooked the crumbling old cabin, the picture of which is given. There are a great many "Washington's headquarters" scattered throughout this part of the country. There is one at Newburg, one at Morristown, etc., while as for the homes in which Washington had slept, they are as numerous as swallows in summer. All these are preserved with scrupulous care, and numerously sneered for evermore by their owners. Not so with the old log cabin of this sketch. Sunshine and storm have been at work upon it for generations, and now it has almost succumbed and passed away. Yet there are few buildings that attract the admiration of Washington that have more of interest in them than this decaying cabin, which stands alone in an old pasture field a half mile west of Berryville, in the beautiful Shenandoah valley of Virginia. Irving describes it as a "lodge in the wilderness," and Howe, in his "History of Virginia," devotes a sentimental half-page to it.

The old cabin was the home of Washington when he was a surveyor. He came here direct from the mansion of Lord Fairfax, to whom he was then engaged in surveying the lands of Thomas, Lord Fairfax, owned all the northern part of Virginia under the king's patent; the work was arduous because of the physical aspect of the country, "then a dense wilderness, and dangerous because of the character of the Indians, who were principally Indians, or savages."

She has since used it whenever necessary and found that it never fails. For sale by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.

Sick Headache.

Nervous or sick headache is usually caused by a disordered state of the stomach. Most "headache-cures" are narcotics, which deaden or paralyze the nerves, only compounding the disease in the stomach and head. They are harmful and frequently dangerous. Carter's Little Liver Pills are a tonic to the seat of the difficulty, stimulates the action of the stomach and liver and removes the cause, frequently accomplishing a permanent cure. Take a dose of the Syrup when the first symptoms of an attack are felt, and it will usually prevent it. A dose after the attack, repeated in two or three hours, will relieve the worst case. An occasional dose by persons subject to the disease will prevent its return. Only 25 cents a dose and $1.00 per bottle at R. C. Hardwick's Drug store. Sample bottle free.

It ought to give promise of rest to a standing army to be ordered to the seat of war.—Yonkers Statesman.

Mothers.

Mothers can keep their children strong and healthy by giving them German Liver Syrup. It is tasteless, being pleasant and efficacious. No crying after first dose, objecting to its administration or to the most palatable Liver medicine on earth. Price 50) and $1.00, and warranted. Sample free at R. C. Hardwick's Drug store.

There is a tied in the affairs of man which, if taken at the knot, leads to strangulation.—Thomasville Times.

To Cure a Cold.

Colds neglected are the foundation for many of the diseases afflicting man as well as domestic animals. A cold closes the pores of the skin, the refuse matter that should find its usually escapes through that outlet is thrown back upon the lungs, into the blood, and throughout the liver, affecting the stomach, bowels and every functions of the body.

To cure a cold, take a large dose of Herman Liver Powders at bed time. Price 25c. per bottle. Sam be free at R. C. Hardwick's Drug store.

Sick Headache.

Nervous or sick headache is usually caused by a disordered state of the stomach. Most "headache-cures" are narcotics, which deaden or paralyze the nerves, only compounding the disease in the stomach and head. They are harmful and frequently dangerous. Carter's Little Liver Pills are a tonic to the seat of the difficulty, stimulates the action of the stomach and liver and removes the cause, frequently accomplishing a permanent cure. Take a dose of the Syrup when the first symptoms of an attack are felt, and it will usually prevent it. A dose after the attack, repeated in two or three hours, will relieve the worst case. An occasional dose by persons subject to the disease will prevent its return. Only 25 cents a dose and $1.00 per bottle at R. C. Hardwick's Drug store. Sample bottle free.

It ought to give promise of rest to a standing army to be ordered to the seat of war.—Yonkers Statesman.

Mothers.

Mothers can keep their children strong and healthy by giving them German Liver Syrup. It is tasteless, being pleasant and efficacious. No crying after first dose, objecting to its administration or to the most palatable Liver medicine on earth. Price 50) and $1.00, and warranted. Sample free at R. C. Hardwick's Drug store.

There is a tied in the affairs of man which, if taken at the knot, leads to strangulation.—Thomasville Times.
